SALEM ELECTION

Goes by Default in Favor of the Citizens' Nominations.

The withdrawal of the nominees of the Republican primaries, leaving only the Citizens' ticket in the field, acted as a soothing lotion on whatever excitement may have been felt over the Salem city election. Leaving, as it did, the election only a matter of form to legalize the title to office of the Citizens' candidates, it removed all semblance of a contest from an election which was a contest only in name. The election of the Citizens' ticket was a foregone conclusion anyway, but there would have been an effort to get out as large a vote as possible.

The battle, however, had been fought and won even before the withdrawal of the candidates of the push, and this left nothing to draw out the voters. The disagreeable storm prevailing has also kept the voters at home, and a very light vote is being cast.

The saloons were all closed during the hours the polls were open, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

There were no carriages out, no ticket peddlers, no workers, no drunkenness, no excitement.

There has been some apprehension that a trick of some kind might be attempted by the push in the third ward at the last moment, but as THE JOURNAL goes to press there are no signs to warrant a fear of underhand work.

At two o'clock 21 votes had been cast in the first ward, 75 in No. 2, 16 in No. 3 and 50 in No. 4.

There were apparently all citizen's tickets, the opposition apparently preferring to stay away from the polls altogether.

CAPITOL-VIEW FARM.

A Fine Improved Piece of Property Sold to a Scotchman For $10,000.

Frank C. Baker has sold his "Capitol-View Farm," of 317 acres situated four miles south of Salem, to Mr. William Gair, formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland. Mr. Baker and others bought this property back in 89 or '90, when real-estate matters all over the country were active. They bought it for speculation. However, latterly the farm became the property of Mr. Baker, who, it is said, improved the place considerably with a view of residing upon it, his wife in particular being very fond of the farm and being extremely desirous of making it her future home. But they both changed their minds, and consequently considered it best to sell it even for a considerably less sum than it cost them. The purchaser, Mr. William Gair, is to be congratulated on the excellence of his bargain, the purchase-price being $10,000 even; $3,500 down; balance payable in a given number of years at six per cent.

Mr. Gair is a native of Edinburgh, where he has been a successful manager of large estates. He is in this country looking after the interests of a Scotch syndicate, and is said to be the advance agent of a Scotch colony that is to locate near Salem.

S. T. Richardson negotiated the sale and acted as attorney for both parties in conducting the transfer.

B. P. O. ELKS.

Observe Their Annual Memorial Day With Appropriate Services.

The Elk's Annual Memorial Day was observed by Salem Lodge No. 336, on Sunday afternoon. The Elk's regular meeting place being so small, to accommodate the number expected, the services were conducted in Odd Fellows' hall in the Holman block, and even this spacious hall was crowded to its utmost capacity with the Elks and their invited guests; the ante-rooms were full and many were unable to get in.

The first number on the program was an excellent rendition of Chopin's Funeral march by the Elks Orchestra.

A violin solo "Traumerl," Schumann, by Roy Gesner with piano accompaniment by Prof. Tillson, was most pleasing, as was "The Palm," by the Elks' Orchestra.

The Elks' quartette sang "Rock of Ages" very acceptably, and Miss Ethel M. Raymond rendered "Nearer My God to Thee" in a pleasing manner.

The Elks' orchestra rendered "Hearts and Flowers" and the Elks quartette, "Blest be the Tie That Binds."

Miss Mabel Lankton Carter recited "Thanatopsis," bringing out the full beauties of Bryant's masterpiece.

Interpersed with this program was ritual work, introductory remarks by the Exalted Ruler of the local lodge, P. H. D'Arcy of Salem and an address by John M. Gearin, the Portland criminal lawyer, besides the opening and closing odes.

The Elks certainly understand arranging an appropriate observation of a day of this kind, according to the constitution of their order. For a Sabbath exercise it almost approached in solemnity a religious service.

Officers chosen at several Salem Lodges for ensuing year, Queen Hive No. 5, L. O. T. M., of Salem, has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Past lady commander, Mrs. D. P. Junk; Lady commander, Miss Rose Moore; Lieutenant commander, Mrs. C. A. Whale; Record keeper, Miss Metta Davis; Finance keeper, Mrs. C. W. ## Want a Sunday Morning Nap.

The Postoffice force have made a change to this effect: Instead of dividing the hour they are required by law to keep the delivery window open on Sunday into two periods, from 7:30 to 8:00 a. m. and 1:00 to 1:30 p. m., they will for the winter at least open from 1 to 2 p. m. Few people come Sunday morning. Nearly all come after noon, or rather after the morning church service. Letters will hereafter be distributed by 12 o'clock and all mail ready for delivery at 1 p. m. This will not require the hard worked force to get out so early on Sunday mornings.

HOLIDAY GOODS

We are opening and marking the largest stock of holiday goods we have ever shown, almost twice as many as we had last season.

Immense lines of dolls, games, books, blocks, substantial iron toys, plenty of toy trunks, drums, etc. for all the children besides a beautiful assortment of purses, handkerchiefs, wool and silk mittens, men's lined and unlined gloves of all sorts, fine mirrors, toilet sets, chinaware, guaranteed knives and razors, good hair brushes etc., and a fine line of men's holiday slippers.

We will have the whole stock arranged next week.

Our Doll Display

We seldom make a mistake in our promises, but when Friday noon came and we had failed to get our doll tables arranged we were chagrined. The busy morning had occupied our attention so that it was 4 o'clock when we finally had them out. So from now on you may come down and inspect them. Bring the children and the babies, they will be pleased. There are dolls for every one.

Our Handkerchief Display

Is attracting so many visitors that we will let it remain a few days longer. Be sure to come soon a big window full, and a big table full inside.

You're Welcome.

CENSUS COMPILED.

Sunday School Canvassing Committee Makes Its Report.

There are 2693 Church Attendants in the City and 1384 Children Go to Sunday School.

There was a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall, Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock of the pastors, Sunday school superintendents and Sunday school workers of the city, forming the local branch of the Marion County Sunday School association.

The report of the canvassing committee, which has just completed a Sunday school census, was received with recommendations for a plan of continuing the work so auspiciously inaugurated.

From the report of the canvassing committee the following figures are taken which will give some idea of the magnitude of the undertaking.

CENSUS FIGURES.

No. of Canvassers..... 47
No. Families visited..... 1461
No. People in these families..... 4443
No. Adults attending Sunday school 580
No. Children attending Sunday school..... 1384
No. Children not attending Sunday school..... 830
No. Church attendants..... 2693
No. Church Members..... 2047

After the reading of the report there were a number of three-minute talks by pastors, superintendents and others present.

The work done so far is merely preliminary and it is proposed to carry on an active campaign until every child, so far as possible, is brought under the good influence of the Sunday school.

Each church will confine itself mainly to the field indicated by the tables of church preferences, compiled from the census report, which, however, it is not considered advisable to make public at present.

A plan suggested by N. J. Damon, upon whose ideas and under whose direction the foundation has been laid, is for each Sunday school to appoint a recruiting officer, whose duty it shall be each Sunday to appoint workers for the following week and lay out their work for them.

As chairman of the canvassing committee, Mr. Damon has called a meeting for next Friday evening, at the Y. M. C. A. hall, for the discussion of plans for the further prosecution of the work.

The utmost good feeling prevails among the different denominations engaged in this co-operative enterprise, and they are all working together in such harmony as speaks well for their conception of the genuine Christian spirit.
